

SPOTLIGHT ON HISTORICAL CRIME

One of the busiest sections in Abbey's is our growing range of Historical Crime.

Look out for New Zealander Joan Druett and the first two titles in her new Wiki Coffin series, both due this month. This is her first foray into this genre, but salties may remember some of her excellent non-fiction nautical titles, such as In the Wake of Madness (Pb $22.95), a tale of murder and rebellion on the whaleship Sharon, and Island of the Lost: Shipwrecked at the Edge of the World (Hb $49.95), a gripping tale of two starkly contrasting castaway experiences.

A Watery Grave

304pp Pb $12.95 Wiki Coffin #1. The year is 1838 and, after more than 10 years in the planning, the famous US Exploring Expedition is set to launch into uncharted waters from the coast of Virginia. Aboard the convoy as ship's linguist is Wiki Coffin. Half New Zealand Maori and half American, Wiki speaks numerous languages and is expected to help the crew navigate the Pacific islands that are his native heritage. However, just before departure, Wiki is arrested for a vicious murder he didn't commit, a victim of the unfortunate bigotry of the time.

Shark Island

300pp Pb $22.95 Wiki Coffin #2. Wiki Coffin, Captain George Rochester and the despicable Lieutenant Forsythe, along with his equally ghastly crony, Passed Midshipman Zachary Kingman, are sent to Shark Island to check out a report of pirates. Captain Wilkes is concerned because Shark Island, on the northeast coast of Brazil, overlooks the route that the US Exploring Expedition will take to Rio de Janiero after the big ships have finished charting the equatorial latitude of the Atlantic Ocean. They arrive to find that not only are there sealing vessels embayed there, but a shocking murder has been committed. And a scandalously exciting part of Wiki's past catches up with him...

Dartmoor, the moorland area in the centre of the English county of Devon and home to Michael Jecks, must be the ideal environment to write medieval mysteries. This month we look forward to the 23rd and 24th in his series featuring Sir Baldwin Furnshill, a former Knight Templar, and his friend Simon Puttock.

Dispensation of Death

418pp Hb $60.00

Knights Templar #24. January 1325, London near Thorney Island. An assassin is observing Westminster. He's on his way to meet with his lord and master, Hugh le Despenser. At the New Temple, he learns who he's being asked to kill...

The Malice of Unnatural Death

512pp Pb $19.95 Knights Templar #23. It is 1324 and the kingdom is in uproar. Escaping from the Tower, Roger Mortimer - the King's most hated enemy - makes his way to France and hires an assassin to murder the King. But just as his plans begin to succeed, the plot is uncovered and the assassin flees the city. Then the body of a local craftsman and that of a King's messenger are found in the city's streets and Sir Baldwin de Furnshill, the Keeper of the King's Peace, and his friend Bailiff Simon Puttock, are asked by the Bishop to find out who was responsible.

Robin Paige is the pseudonym of Texan husband-and-wife writing team Susan Wittig Albert and Bill Albert. This series of Victorian-Edwardian mysteries features sleuth Sir Charles Sheridan, a landed peer and amateur scientist with a special interest in new forensic techniques, such as fingerprinting, ballistics, toxicology and photography.

Death on the Lizard

352pp Pb $17.95 Sir Charles Sheridan #12. Lizard Village, 1903. Wireless telegraph companies around the world scramble to develop the new communications technology. But an Italian beats them to it. His feat has bruised some egos, but no one expects sabotage, much less murder. After two apparently accidental deaths at the transmission station. Sheridan is asked to head an investigation and finds that valuable equipment has disappeared. Then a local girl drowns and it becomes clear that these deaths and the dirty tricks at the station are connected.

Peter's knee surgery was successful and we wish him all the best while he recuperates in hospital.

Michel BENOIT

The Thirteenth Apostle

300pp Pb $24.95

The story of an ancient sect detailed within papyrus sheaves hidden in the caves at Qumran ( now known as The Dead Sea Scrolls) forms the foundation of this exhaustively researched novel. The Secret of the 13th Apostle contains lore perhaps more familiar to the Knights Templar than to readers of Dan Brown, but will excite similar passions. Due Aug (French)

Mark BILLINGHAM Buried

528pp Pb $19.95

🔍 Luke Mullen, 16-year-old son of a former police officer, has disappeared, presumed kidnapped. While noone quite dares to voice the fear that he could also be presumed dead, DI Tom Thorne is brought in to beef up the squad dedicated to locating the missing boy. Due Jul (English)

Mark BILLINGHAM 🗱 Death Message

300pp Tp $32.95 The first message sent to Tom Thorne's mobile phone was just a picture - the blurred image of a man's face, but Thorne had seen enough dead bodies in his time to know that the man was no longer alive. But who was he? Who sent the photograph and why? While the technical experts attempt to trace the sender, Thorne searches the daily police bulletins for a reported death that matches the photograph. Then another picture arrives. Another dead man. The identities of the murdered men give Thorne his first clue, a link to a dangerous killer he'd put away years before and who is still in prison. With a chilling talent for manipulation, this man has led another inmate to plot revenge on everyone he blames for his current incarceration and for the murder of his family while he was inside. Newly released, this convict has no fear of the police, no feelings for those he is compelled to murder... Due Aug (English)

Roger MAYNARD The Fatal Flaw

Easter Sunday, 2002. On sleepy Norfolk Island, the faithful are returning from morning service at St Barnabas Chapel while tourists prepare for another day of sightseeing and Janelle shopping. Patton has just finished her breakfast shift as restaurant manager at the Castaway Hotel. A few hours later, she will be found dead, her mutilated body covered in black plastic and hidden near a waterfall on the other side of the island. It is the first murder here in 150 years and everyone is a suspect. Four years on, a man is arrested in New Zealand. Detectives have found evidence linking the killing of Janelle Patton to Glenn McNeill, a chef who was working on the island at the time of her death. In March 2007, the verdict is handed down: guilty. But will the mystery surrounding the brutal slaving of the young Sydney hotel worker ever be satisfactorily explained? (Australian)
