ELIZABETH PETERS

Two new titles from one of my favourite authors:

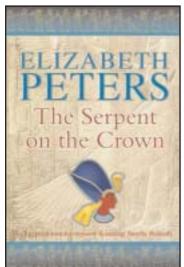

ELIZABETH PETERS
Tomb of the Golden Bird

Tomb of the Golden Bird 354pp Hb 49.95 The chase is on - and Amelia Peabody and family are in the thick of it. It is 1922. Convinced that the tomb of the little-known pharaoh Tutankhamon lies somewhere in the Valley of the Kings. Emerson has tried to persuade his rivals Lord Carnavon and Howard Carter to hand over their digging rights in the valley to him, but to no avail. Emerson is disappointed, but back in Luxor, an incident at the Emerson-Peabody clan's hotel provides a distraction. Emerson and Ramses are lured into a trap by a group of villains demanding an answer to the mysterious question, 'Where is he?'. Their curiosity piqued, the duo determine to uncover who 'he' is and why 'he' should be so important. Is Emerson's charming half-brother behind these odd events? Or is Seth himself in danger, privy to a secret that certain governments do not want exposed? One thing is for sure, Emerson, Amelia and their dauntless family are in for another round of danger and excitement. The 18th in the series.

Peters lays out her scenes of romantic derring-do with such a lavish hand that it seems a bit nerdy to draw attention to the deeper pleasure of the rich scholarship involved in these archaeological mysteries.

The Serpent on the Crown 288pp Pb 21.95

A unique treasure obtained by unscrupulous means, the small gold statuette of an unidentified Egyptian king is a priceless relic from a bygone era. But more than history surrounds the remarkable artefact, for it is said that early death will come to anyone who possesses it.

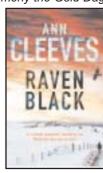

Enjoying a world finally at peace, the Emersons have returned to the Valley of the Kings in 1922. With the lengthy ban on their archaeological activities lifted, Amelia Peabody and her family look forward to delving once more into the age-old mysteries buried in Egypt's ever-shifting sands. But a widow's strange story — and even stranger request — is about to plunge them into a storm of secrets, treachery, superstition... and murder. The 17th in the series.

The full series in order is Crocodile on the Sandbank, Curse of the Pharaohs, Mummy Case, Lion in the Valley, Deeds of the Disturber, Last Camel Died at Noon, The Snake, the Crocodile and the Do, Hippopotamus Pool, Seeing a Large Cat, The Ape Who Guards the Balance, The Falcon at the Portal, Thunder in the Sky, Lord of the Silent, Golden One, Children of the Storm and Guardian of the Horizon (Pb 21.95 ea).

Johnny Come Home 278pp Tp 32.95

It's 1972 and as the dreams of the 60s give way to anger and political unrest, the charismatic anarchist Declan O'Connell commits suicide, leaving his boyfriend Pearson and fellow squatter Nina to try to make sense of what happened. Enter 'Sweet Thing', a streetwise rent boy, who has an uncanny hold over glam rock star Johnny Chrome; and in the wings lurks DS Walker of the Bomb Squad, who knows more about O'Connell anyone suspects. The course of all their lives is about to change forever - for better and for worse. (English)

Lori AVOCATO

Deep Sea Dead

297pp Pb 16.95

A Pauline Sokol Mystery. A confirmed landlubber, PI Pauline Sokol has never heard the call of the sea - or if she has, she didn't pay attention. But now the former RN is donning her nurse's whites once more to go undercover as part of the medical team of the Golden Dolphin - a lavish luxury liner that is setting sail for Bermuda. There's something fishy going on aboard the super-deluxe dinghy and it's Pauline's job to be the ship's designated secret snoop. But when a dead body turns up (in her cabin, no less!) and another nurse goes missing, Pauline realises she may be over her head in shark-infested waters. (American)

Former CIA operative Baer pushes fiction to the limit in this riveting and unnervingly plausible alternative history of 9/11. (American)

Colin BATEMAN

Belfast Confidential 500pp Pb 19.95

They say moving house is one of the most stressful things you can do. Well, as far as Dan Starkey is concerned, 'they' can stick it because right now helping his wife with the unpacking is the least of his worries. No sooner has Dan moved into his new Belfast home, his best mate, Mouse, is murdered, leaving him to catch a killer, become editor of the obscenely successful scandal magazine, Belfast Confidential, and compile its muchcoveted Power List edition. (Irish)

Madison Smartt BELL

Straight Cut 253pp Pb 16.95

A freelance film editor, Tracy Bateman goes where the work is. So when his old partner calls with an assignment, Tracy finds himself on a plane to Rome. But there are surprises waiting for him - deadly surprises that lead him on a desperate chase across Europe into the hands of a pair of brutal drug smugglers and back to New York City, where greatest betrayal of all awaits... (American)

Mark BILLINGHAM

Lifeless 464pp Pb 19.95 Tom Thorne #5. To his friends, his foes and even to himself, it looks as though Tom Thorne's career is on the skids. On his last case, he seriously overstepped the mark. Gardening leave has been suggested and all he has to tend is a window box. So when it appears someone is targeting London's homeless community, it seems perfectly natural for Thorne to take a step nearer the gutter and go undercover among them. He blends into the sometimes invisible community easily - too easily perhaps but the information he gleans quickly proves that this is no random killer; it is someone with a very distinct purpose and a very specific list of victims. But the team supporting Thorne from the outside don't have the key as to motive or identity. (English)

Tim BINDING

Man Overboard 244pp Pb 22.95 Lionel 'Buster' Crabb became renowned during the WWII for his amazing feats of underwater daring. After the war, he was celebrated for embodying a particular English ideal - a love for King and Country - that seemed to be dying out. Then, in 1956, during a visit to Britain by Nikita Khrushchev, who had arrived by ship, Commander Crabb disappeared. Some thought he perished while attempting to inspect the Soviet vessel, others that he had been kidnapped and forced to work for the USSR. Out of this mystery, the author spins a wondrous piece of fiction. (English)

Father Anslem #2. In The Sixth Lamentation (Pb 22.95), Broderick introduced Father Anslem, the barristerturned-monk who found himself plunged into the tangled history of occupied Paris. Now Father Anslem is brought back to his own past at the Bar, and someone else's secrets. Elizabeth Glendinning QC has lost faith in the legal system to which she has given her life. In an attempt to restore it, she has secretly devised a scheme to bring a guilty man back to court - Graham Riley, whom she successfully defended 10 years previously. As part of an elaborate contingency plan, Elizabeth leaves the unsuspecting Anslem with a key to a safety deposit box, to be opened in the event of her death. Three weeks later, she is found dead in the East End of London. Once the box is opened, a chain of events is triggered as if from beyond the grave, and Anslem is led to fulfil what Elizabeth has begun. (English)

Bleedout 471pp Pb 19.95

Even after Hugh Freyl lost his sight, he was invincible. But late one night, in the library of the elite law firm that bears his name, he was beaten to death. The obvious suspect is David Marion, a convicted killer from the inner city. Hugh, the scion of the richest and most influential family in Springfield, Illinois, had orchestrated David's release from prison and outraged his family and friends by making the young man his protégé. Now, in the eyes of Hugh's circle, David's criminal past fits him perfectly for the murderer's role. It makes no sense for David to have killed his teacher, liberator and friend. But, if he didn't, who did? (American)

Kathy BRANDT Under Pressure

All Fun and Games Until Someone Loses an Eye 416pp Pb 22.95

As a teenager, Jane Bell dreamt of playing in the casinos of Monte Carlo in the company of James Bond, but in her punk phase, she'd got herself pregnant and, by the time she reaches 46, she's a grandmother, her dreams as dry as the dust her Dyson sucks up from her hall carpet every day. Then her son Ross, a researcher working for an arms manufacturer in Switzerland, is forced to disappear before some characters cut from the same cloth as Blofeld persuade him to part with the secrets of his research. But they're not the only ones desperate to locate him. A team of security experts is hired by Ross's firm: headed by the enigmatic Bett, his staff have little in common apart from total professionalism and a thorough disregard for the law. Bett believes the key to Ross's whereabouts is his mother, and in one respect he's right, but even he is taken aback by the verve underlying her determination to secure her son's safety as she learns the black arts of quiet subterfuge and violent attack. An anonymous phone call was all it took to alert the police to a body at The Palace. Now, 18 years later, Johnny Frank is coming out of jail with only one thing on his mind - to kill the man who put him there. But first he's going to make him suffer. Jim Buckley has got everything that Johnny doesn't: a marriage, kids, a future. Moving in on his life, Johnny subtly begins to spread rumour and suspicion. Dividing husband and wife, father and son, he sets about his intention of destroying the family from inside out. But his plans soon go dramatically awry. As the past returns to haunt him, a vicious murder and kidnap force him back on to the streets of London. He could choose to disappear if it wasn't for Simone. Buckley's provocative daughterin-law has got under his skin, and with her husband's life in the balance, it seems she may be willing to do just about anything to persuade Johnny to help her... The Poe Shadow 372pp Tp 32.95
Baltimore 1849. The body of Edgar Allan
Poe has been buried in an unmarked grave. The public, the press, and even Poe's own family and friends accept the conclusion that Poe was a second-rate writer who met a disgraceful end as a drunkard. Everyone, in fact, seems to believe this except a young Baltimore lawyer named Quentin Clark, an ardent admirer who puts his own career and reputation at risk in a passionate crusade to salvage Poe's. (American)

The Cock Lane Ghost:

Murder, Sex and Haunting in Dr Johnson's London 246pp Hb 40.00

This is the true story of a series of events that took place in London in the 1760s. Businessman William Kent fell foul of a powerful Norfolk family when he eloped with their daughter, Frances Lynes. The couple fled to London and took lodging in Cock Lane. When Frances died, a mysterious ghostly conspiracy against Kent began, gathering so much momentum that it almost led to him being hung for murder. At the heart of the affair was a story of sexual infatuation, conspiracy, accusations of murder and rape, and the alleged return of the victim from beyond the grave to point out her killer. The case aroused huge popular curiosity and was subject to the insatiable spinning of London's early newspaper industry, ultimately involving figures such as Dr Samuel Johnson. (English)

Michael FINKEL

True Story 312pp Pb 27.95

The story begins in February 2002, when a reporter in Oregon contacts New York Times Magazine writer Michael Finkel with a startling piece of news. A young, highly intelligent man named Christian Longo, on the FBI's '10 Most Wanted' list for killing his entire family, has recently been captured in Mexico, where he had taken on a new identity - Michael Finkel of the New York Times. The next day, on page A-3 of the Times, comes another bit of troubling news: a note, written by the paper's editors, explaining that Finkel has falsified parts of an investigative article and has been fired. After Longo's arrest, the only journalist the accused murderer will speak to is the real Michael Finkel. With Longo insisting he can prove his innocence, Finkel strives to uncover what really happened to Longo's family. His quest becomes a psychological cat-and-mouse game. (American)

Death in Belmont 266pp Tp 32.95

In the spring of 1963, the quiet suburb of Belmont, Massachusetts is rocked by a shocking sex murder that exactly fits the pattern of the Boston Strangler. Sensing a break in the case that has paralysed Boston, the police track down a black man, Roy Smith, who cleaned the victim's house that day and left a receipt with his name on the kitchen counter. Smith is hastily convicted of the Belmont murder, but the terror of the Strangler continues. On the day of the murder, Albert DeSalvo - the man who would eventually confess in lurid detail to the Strangler's crimes - is also in Belmont, working as a carpenter at the Jungers' home. In this spare, powerful narrative, Junger chronicles three lives that collide - and are ultimately destroyed - in the vortex of one of the first and most controversial serial murder cases in America.
